This week the Oregon Community College Association (OCCA), in partnership with the Phi Theta Kappa honor society, honored 36 outstanding students from Oregon's 17 community colleges. These students make up the 2016 All-Oregon Academic Team (AOAT).

Students began the day by meeting Governor Kate Brown and posing for a picture in the Ceremonial Office at the State Capitol. From there, recipients were honored at a luncheon at the Salem Convention Center. In attendance were the students' greatest supporters – their friends and family – as well as community college presidents, administrators, legislators, state officials, and Higher Education Coordinating Commissioners.

Andrea Henderson, executive director of OCCA, calls the awards ceremony her favorite day of the year. “I’m so in awe of their accomplishments,” she said of the students. “Many of them are first-generation students, many of them are parents, many of them have had significant financial difficulties,” she said.

The AOAT luncheon is a time to celebrate the academic accomplishments these students have attained so far. It is also a time to encourage students to carry forward with their academic journeys to accomplish the goals they have set for themselves. To encourage students to continue their studies, members of AOAT receive scholarships ranging from $1,000 to $9,000 per year, depending on the Oregon college or university they’ve chosen to attend.

Also, a special congratulations to Miguel Ángel Gaspar Márquez, student at Oregon Coast Community College, for being one of just twenty students selected nationally to the All-USA Community College Academic Team. This honor recognizes students from two-year colleges across the country who display outstanding academic achievement and community service. Each All USA team member receives a $5,000 scholarship from Phi Theta Kappa. Miguel is also a member of the New Century Scholars program, which honors the top-scoring student from each of the 50 states and Canada. Each member receives a $2,000 scholarship. Recipients of this award were recognized at the American Association of Community Colleges (AACC) annual convention in Chicago last month.

A number of the All-Oregon Academic Team members were also recipients of Coca-Cola Community College Academic Team scholar awards. Gold Scholar awards were given to Alex Autio, student at Clatsop Community College, and Tony Vezina, student at Portland Community College – Cascade Campus. Bronze Scholar award was given to Jamie Corff, student at Chemeketa Community College – Yamhill Valley Campus. Gold Scholar winners each receive a $1,500 scholarship and Bronze Scholar recipients each receive a $1,000 scholarship.

HECC Funding and Achievement Subcommittee Meeting Update

This week the Higher Education Coordinating Commission (HECC) Funding and Achievement Subcommittee met in Salem to begin preliminary budget conversations for the 2017 legislative session.

Patrick Crane, Director of the Office of Community Colleges and Workforce Development, presented information on community college funding. Topics covered include: current funding scenario impacting community colleges; cost drivers impacting community colleges, including external costs such as those associated with meeting compliance requirements; and, various budget scenarios to consider for 2017-19 biennium.

Three budget scenarios for the Community College Support Fund (CCSF):

1) Status Quo CCSF

- $620.2 million ($550 million CCSF 2015-17 appropriation plus $70.2 million in external cost drivers for 2017-19)

2) State Support at 50 percent CCSF

- $680 million

3) Tuition-Free CCSF

- $1.05 billion

Several community college presidents and Andrea Henderson, executive director of Oregon Community College Association, were also in attendance and gave public testimony in support of an increase in funding for community colleges. Mary Spilde, president of Lane Community College, Greg Hamann, president of Linn-Benton Community College, Sylvia Kelley, interim president of Portland Community College, and Jim Langstraat, vice president of finance and administration at Portland Community College, provided testimony and spoke about what more funding would mean for students. Some things mentioned include: scaling up of student success efforts (e.g. guided pathways, developmental education redesign, placement, advising), improved safety and security on campuses, assistance with housing and food insecurity of students, transportation, and childcare.
